

All of Me Training workshop- please complete for discussion in the workshop

Who in your practice is most likely to bring up topic of/inquire about sexual health with your patients (physician, midlevel provider, nurse, social worker)? Do you have a “champion” in your office who is seen as having an interest in this area and/or is the go-to person for support?

When do you feel the best time(s) to have a discussion regarding the effects of cancer and treatment on sexuality and sexual health? Are there particular pivotal moments when you want to ensure this topic is addressed?

Where do you have these conversations?

How do you promote and foster a climate that allows for such candid conversations and promote trust?

Are there tools and/or educational resources you use to describe issues of sexual health or potential side effects of medications as it relates to sexual health?

What resources do you wish you had to support patients?

Please add any further comments:

